TO SAVE CULT LEADER.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 16.—Arguments were heard in the Illinois supreme court today in the case of Evelyn Arthur See, the Chicago cult leader, whose trial attracted widespread attention a year or more ago. See was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary on a charge of abducting Mildred Bridges, who, with her mother, was among See's most prominent disciples and inmates of his "temple." Pending the appeal in this case the cult leader has been at liberty under bail. The belief prevails that conviction will be a difficult matter in the event of a second trial, for the reason that the father of the Bridges girl, who is prominent in Chicago business circles and who instigated the prosecution of See, has since become reconciled to his wife and daughter, both of whom are still loyal to the cult leader.

UTAH COPPER

is Operating at Normal Capacity Again

The Utah Copper company is again operating at normal capacity. One day last week 15,000 tons of ore were mined which is the maximum reached before the strike of the Bingham miners.

The night shift has been started and 19 shovels are being used. About one-fourth the force formerly employed is underground is working.

About 1500 are now employed as compared with 1900 previously. More men are applying daily, including a number of old employees who have renounced the western federation of miners.

A larger tonnage will be mined than formerly, and mills will increase capacity place construction work has been completed at the Arthur mill.

A wage increase of 20 to 25 cents a day announced by the Utah Copper company. The increase applies particularly to pitmen, trackmen and laborers, and continues only while copper remains above 17 cents a pound.

A Salt Lake, Utah, dispatch says: "Upon his return from Bingham, D. C. Jackling, general manager of the Utah Copper Company, stated that the recent strike is no longer felt and that all furnaces are running full blast."

Mr. Jackling was accompanied on his inspection trip by President Charles M. MacNeill and assistant general manager R. C. Gemmel.

"Up to within a few days ago the company had made no effort to resume underground operations, but for several days the company has had about one-fourth the normal crew at work on this character of mining."

"At the time the miners went on a strike the Utah Copper company had approximately 1900 men employed, this number covering all classes of employees, of which between 1400 and 1500 men were on surface work. At the present time the company is employing approximately 1500 men, 1400 of whom are used on surface work."

"The fact of the matter is that the Utah Copper company is loading on the surface as large a tonnage of ore as it was immediately preceding the strike, and the force employed in surface work is practically normal."

It has been stated that the number of men employed in mining forms a part of the guard, but this is absolutely untrue. The number of employees, as I have given it to you, does not include any of the men who are retained for the purpose of protecting the property."

"Shortly before the strike was called off the Utah Copper company had increased the capacity of its concentrating plants at Garfield to handle a normal capacity of 20,000 tons of ore within each 24 hours. This maximum had not been gained prior to the strike, so the handling of 15,000 tons of ore on yesterday brings the company to the point where it was the day the miners at Bingham walked out."

SEEK LIQUOR CONTROL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16.—Delegates by the governors of nearly all of the states are in Washington to attend the conference on Federal regulation of the liquor traffic. The conference will assemble Monday and continue in session several days. The enactment of a Federal statute to prohibit shipment of intoxicating liquors is the chief and sought by the supporters of the movement. As a result of the conference held here last year a bill for the Federal regulation of the liquor traffic was agreed upon and presented to congress, but that body adjourned before the bill came up for passage. Extraordinary efforts will be made to have the measure again brought up and acted upon at the present session of congress.
